Refuses to Betray Higher Ups.
Asked if he would be willing to disclose information relating to the connection of "higher ups" with the bond theft, Furey refused to say whether he would. He said that he had made his offer, and that he would stand on it; that if it is accepted he will talk, and if it is not accepted he will not divulge any of his secrets whatever.

Deputy Sheriff Badge Real.
To a detective who questioned him, Mr. Levine said that he had obtained the badge on recommendation of an Assistant District Attorney of the Bronx from the Sheriff of that county. A few weeks later, he said, he went to the county without it, and on returning home found that the door of his apartment had been jimmied and the place ransacked. He believes, he said, that the badge was stolen from him at that time. He showed a picture of "Big Eddie" and declared that he had never seen him, to the best of his recollection.

court yesterday of the deception he said had been practiced upon him by two men describing themselves as John But-tell, 324 St. Ann's avenue, The Bronx, and Arthur Larsen, 614 East 135th street. Spitzer complained that on January 9 the couple offered him fifty-one barrels of beer for $127 a gallon.
The next day, he testified, the men drove up with the barrels and, fearing that they might attract notice from the police, he turned over $13,550 without waiting to receive the contents, which he discovered later to be Croton water.

A fire of unknown origin which started in a wood bin in the sub-cellar of 311 East 149th street, early yesterday drove twenty-four families to the street in scanty attire. The damage is estimated at $5,000. Abbott & Rosetti, doll manufacturers, who occupy the basement, where the blaze started, were the principal sufferers.

Buyer's Fear of Detection Aided Fakers in Deal.
Jacob Spitzer of 483 Brook avenue, formerly a saloon proprietor, told Magistrate Silberman in the Morrisania court yesterday of the deception he said
tell, 324 St. Ann's avenue, The Bronx,
and Arthur Larsen, 614 East 135th
street. Spitzer complained that on Janu-
